MR. AND MRS. EUGENE HARDER

Sonia Sawchuk Of Hylo Married In Pretty Candlelight Service

At a beautiful candlelight ceremony in Fellowship Baptist Church, Edmonton, Miss Sonia Sawchuck became the bride of Mr. Eugene Paul Harder.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Sawchuk of Hylo. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Harder of Crossfield.

Rev. J. R. Armstrong officiated.

Bouquets of white and yellow gladioli with other fall flowers and lighted tapers decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of lace and net with lily-pointed sleeves. The floor-length skirt swept to a slight train and was embroidered with sequined lover's knots. The face-veil was held in place by a crown of orange blossoms and the bride carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of yellow gladioli.

Miss Emily Stratichuk was maid of honor and bridesmaid was Miss Ann Massey.

The attendants wore identical sheath dresses in pinkish brown lace with brown nylon tulle net overskirts, complemented with large, nylon tulle net picture hats. They carried bouquets of white Shasta daisies, each centred with a white candle.

The best man was Mr. Laverne Harder of Crossfield. Ushers were Mr. Duane Harder, Mr. David Heyer and Mr. Francis Baldwin.

Mrs. Ron Pearson played wedding music and Mrs. Betty Reid was soloist.

After the wedding a reception was held at the Fellowship Baptist Church auditorium. The bride's table was decorated with fall flowers and centred with a four-tiered wedding cake flanked by candles.

Floral decorations were arranged by Mrs. J. B. Poppitt of Edmonton.

The mayor's term is for a period of two years.

Voting was believed to be the heaviest yet recorded for an election of councillors, with a total of 211 ballots being cast. The votes polled for each of the six candidates were as follows:

COUNTY OF ATHABASCA

School Bus Drivers Get "A" Rating Following Inspection

The council met as a school committee on October 8, opening at 10:20 a.m following the reading of the minutes and their adoption, items were dealt with from the minutes.

A report was given on the recent inspection of bus drivers by an inspector from Highway Traffic Board in regard to the conditions of the buses in operation. Buses coming in to Athabasca, Smith, Colinton schools were inspected and the balance will be inspected later this week. There was a good recommendation from the inspector. All drivers were found to have "A" licenses.

Discussion of the outstanding teacher award followed and the committee reported that Mrs. W. C. Donahue was the recipient this year. She will receive an illuminated scroll and an engraved wrist watch. The award will be presented at the luncheon sponsored by the county at the Teachers' Convention. Ben F. Shaw was delegated to represent the county.

The possibility of a new system of unloading of buses at some of the schools was discussed.

Superintendent M. G. Gault mentioned several recommendations he had made which had not been carried out. A lengthy debate ensued as to duties of employees, methods of notifying them of such recommendations, methods of checking in order to see they were done. A list of responsibilities and duties was drawn up some time ago and the matter was left to a committee to set out various duties and to present to the council for their okay.

The council recessed for noon, returning at 1:55 p.m.

A delegation headed by John Phau in regard to purchase of the Frains school for community use was heard. Mr. Phau said he was representing the Farmers Agricultural Club. He was accompanied by Dan Kolach. They were told to organize and receive their charter, listing members, and that the Frains school was being withheld from sale for the present and that it would be re-advertised and they could then bid.

They left at half past three, when consideration was given to the accounts. Looking these over and authorizing passing on to the county council took an hour.

A discussion of re-routing school bus routes then took the floor. Some felt that a gate service was justified; others felt that there were too many who could not be served in that manner due to roads and that the present service, if extended in cases of emergency in particular cases, and roads kept in good shape for efficient bus service should be all expected for now. What the future requirements on each bus route would be would play an important part in making the decision. The matter was left until the questionnaires could be brought back.

Cliff Hitz, building supervisor, asked for a decision on the type of furnace to be installed in the county office. The question of material to be used for finishing the Board Room and the general office was discussed and Mr. Hitz was requested to bring samples the following day. The furnace was chosen and he was told to go ahead with it and gas installation, etc.

In regard to heating at Richmond Park, it was decided to purchase an oil stove for this year with intentions of moving a furnace from another school where it was not in use, in the future.

A list of surplus equipment was read and council debated at some length at the best method of disposing of the items. Some of the equipment in the school at Boyle is needed, it is to be picked up, and was taken off the surplus list. The majority of the equipment is at Colinton and it was decided to sell the material at Colinton there, and the other material be sold locally following advertisement by the local member by written bids.

Meeting adjourned at 8:00 p.m.

The meeting re-convened Friday at 10:30 and the first item was a request for use of the gym for the home nursing class in Athabasca by the Athabasca Chapter AARN. It was felt this was in the line of adult education and permission was granted.

A request for fencing a school yard by the local home and school association was felt to be outside their scope; a discussion of water at some of the schools was detailed; caretakers are needed at two schools, one having resigned and the other school has so far been looked after by the principal who felt he no longer had the time.

Due to the unseasonable early fall, plans for building at Calling Lake will undoubtedly be dropped. Council will be asked to delay the actual borrowing of the money until ready to commence building.

Requests for various classroom equipment, maps, globes, blinds, blackboards, etc. was received from several schools.

A letter was received from the Principal's Association in regard to setting out duties of teachers when supervising, at noon. A debate as to when some of the schools should be open in order to accommodate the children vanned in by buses going on to other schools followed as well as a thorough discussion of the problems involved.

Superintendent Gault reported that there was a total of 2,528 students enrolled at September 30, 54 more than last year. There are 97 teachers on the staff of the county, all of whom are certified teachers. Touching on the newly authorized Ukrainian 20 course, he said there had not been sufficient demand for enrolment in the course to warrant teaching it this year. He concluded by touching briefly on the Laggard Student Policy; the Guidance Officers' clinic; the beginning teachers and the teachers' banquet.

A delegation headed by Fred Holorenko, consisting of John Nahrabinchuk, Boris Hussynec and George Waselenchuk appeared in regard to the purchase of Frains school, for community purposes. After setting out their case, they were told the county was withholding it from sale at the presen time; that they should get a charter as a community organization and when it was re-advertised they could bid on it.

Mr. Gault sketched the necessity of providing more space for future pupils in several of the schools. In many cases, he said, it was a case of providing more accommodation or re-directing the pupils to another school. He suggested the county should undertake a family census, listing all the children, their date of birth and ages, and location of residence, without delay.

He said there was a possibility of conducting evening classes in agriculture and asked the pleasure of the council. The mind of the meeting was divided as to the popularity of such a course and the matter was left to the next meeting in order to explore all the possibilities.

Dates for future meetings of the council were discussed. There is such a quantity of business that it is no longer possible to finish in two days. It was suggested to hold the school committee meeting on the second Wednesday, but further discussion suggested it might be better to hold the first day of the county meeting on Wednesday and the school committee on Thursday, with the county meeting finishing up on the Friday. Delegations having business with the school committee will be heard a 2 p.m. on Thursday and delegations having business with the county council will be heard on the Wednesday at 2 p.m. and the recommendation was madeto the county council.

A number of routine matters occupied the meeting. Furnaces and other heating to be inspected; school sites and fences; broken windows; water in basements o unoccupied schools; appointments made to the staff since the las meeting were confirmed; bus mileages at Smith and Clover View will be checked.

The committee recommended t the county council that an officia opening be held for the new office Meeting adjourned to meet agai on Saturday at 9 p.m. as a county council.

On Saturday the minutes were read and approved and reports were made from committees appointed to look into business from previous meetings.

Councillors were requested to make out their bridge list for 1960.

The financial report was read and accepted. It was reported the loan authorized at the September meeting was not needed as some grant money came in.

A committee was appointed to inspect the Clover View road as soon as the snow melts. A suggestion was made that a survey be made of all side roads in order to determine the worst with a view of considering repairs.

The question of purchasing another snow plow and wing was discussed. It was felt that there was not enough money left to purchase any machinery and that while not ideal, there were as many plows as there were last year, and the same area to cover. The matter was tabled.

As a follow-up to requests for removal of power lines a debate ensued regarding the distance which should be allowed or requested when the lines were being erected. It was eventually decided to ask all REA power lines be at least 50 feet from the centre of the road.

Following a complaint of the condition of one of the contingency roads, which had been graded repeatedly this summer, discussion ensued of ways and means of financing maintenance on contingency roads. All county machinery is kept busy on country roads what with rain, break-downs, etc. and the suggestion was put forth that it might be a good idea to purchase one or two machines just for use on the contingency roads. It was felt it was vital to keep the roads in good condition or there could be a slow down on the building of future roads.

In the afternoon, routine work was completed, accounts were approved and the October meeting was adjourned at 10:30 p.m.

There is a possibility this will be the last meeting to be held at Meanook, as the office building is taking shape and it is possible that "moving day" would arrive before the next meeting, which will be Tuesday, November 10 for the county council meeting, Thursday, November 12 for the school committee meeting and Friday, the 13 to finish the county meeting.

Teen Drinking Starts At Home

By HOWARD WHITMAN

Part 9 in the series "Our Drinking Habits"

"Listen, Mister, don't laugh at me, but I can't have any fun without a couple of glasses of beer."

The speaker is a boy of 16. He addresses the remark to Dr. Wayne Womer, of Richmond, Va., who has just given a temperance talk at a Richmond high school.

The boy isn't being cocky. He walks up alone and sheepishly, gets Dr. Womer in a corner and tells him his troubles. "I go to a party and I'm a drag. I'm scared stiff to ask any girl to dance. That is, until I have a couple of beers—then I'm all right."

Howard Whitman

"Are you really all right?" Dr. Womer asks.

"Sure, I have fun," the boy replies.

"And you have solved your problem? At the next party you can go right up and ask a girl to dance?"

"Well, no. But after the beers I can."

"Then it's really the beer that has solved the problem. Not you."

The boy reluctantly admits that this is so. In fact, the problem would loom bigger than ever without the beer. He has come to depend on it. He doesn't give his own self-confidence a chance to develop.

"But on the other hand," Dr. Womer persists, "suppose you just face up to it at the next party. You say to yourself, 'Look, all kids are a little scared of girls at my age. Suppose I do goof. So what?' And you take the plunge.

"Now I know it's difficult. But the point is, isn't it going to be easier next time? You see, son, you will be solving the problem. You'll be building strength in yourself."

The teen-ager is at a turning point. Up to now he held his parents responsible for who he was, what he looked like, and how others felt about him. Now, in adolescence, he begins to worry about these things himself. He starts to hold himself responsible.

One of the early possibilities which presents itself is the flight from reality. Don't face life at all. Run away from it, bend it, twist it, make a little world all your own. And somewhere along the the teen-ager discovers that all this magic can be drunk out of a glass, just like water, except that it tastes terrible.

To one guidance counselor a girl of 17, unattractively fat, said with every drink I took I got littler and fluffier."

And an 18-year-old boy, extremely short for his age, said, "With every drink I got taller and taller."

IT'S A PATTERN

The pattern emerges: more and more strength in the bottle, less and less strength in the person. Drink will only make the fat girl fatter, but a good diet and some exercise might make her "littler and fluffier"—and for real. As for the short boy, elevator shoes might help a little but he'll just have to suffer through the bulk of the problem same as Napoleon, Stephen Douglas, and Fiorello LaGuardia did.

About a third of our high school youth drink. A Purdue University poll of students throughout the country showed that 35% "sometimes drink beer, wine or liquor" (45% of the boys, 27% of the girls). Among the freshmen and sophomores, youngsters of 15 and 16, the drinkers accounted for only 28%. By time they were seniors, age 18, 40% "sometimes" indulged.

A Canadian poll went further, asking high school youth, "Have you ever been tight?" One out of four boys said yes. But only one out of 40 girls did.

Why do the youngsters drink? Some few, perhaps one in 15, are on the tragic path to alcoholism. Already, at high school age, they have turned to liquor as a way of meeting life. It is their crutch, their problem solver. Unless they are helped or booted off that path, and soon, they will be our drunks of 1970.

ALCOHOLICS START EARLY

Alcoholism takes anywhere from 7 to 17 years to develop fully. The boy who "can't have any fun" without his beers and the fat girl who drinks herself "littler and fluffier" are both candidates.

Today's five million alcoholics have been through all that, or something like it. They started early. A survey of A.A.'s shows most of them started hitting the bottle before they were 19.

But—if present percentages hold—14 of 15 youngsters who drink are not going to become alcoholics at all. They are going to become take-it-or-leave-it drinkers, heavy drinkers, light drinkers or ex-drinkers. Why are they drinking now—in their teens?

Juniors and seniors in six high schools in three Michigan communities gave these reasons for drinking:

1. To be one of the group—"not to be left out."

2. To be group up — "to act smart."

3. Because adults drink and "high school's the time to start living by adult standards."

Most parents expect their children to drink, sooner or later. Two out of three adults drink and there is not much evidence that parents who drink are burning to make teetotalers out of their children. Rather the questions are—when? how much? under what circumstances?

WOULD PUT IT OFF

The average parent (who drinks) would like a smooth and gradual, almost imperceptible transition for the child, with no drunkeness or hi jinx, and he would like to put it off as long as possible. He would be happy if, say, at 21 the child emerged as a cultured drinker of the aperitif, a refined and moderate social imbiber with nary a hic nor stagger to mar the malamorphosis.

The parent easily overlooks his own bouts with needled beer during Prohibition and the time he was rushed to the school infirmary with red eyes and a green face during the Commencement dance.

Today's parents fear (as their parents did) that drinking increases the already monumental hazards of sex.

Recently a group of high school boys and girls were questioned in Montreal, Canada. The consensus was that a girl who gets drunk on a date is "a fool playing with fire". She puts herself in a situation, the youngsters agreed, which she might not be able to handle. Her sense of values, her concern for consequences, might easily be as unsteady as she is.

In its research on college drinking the Yale Center of Alcohol Studies found that girls' major fears about over-drinking involved "not knowing what I'm doing with a man," "misbehavior," "acting loose in morals." Moreover, both boys and girls told the Yale researchers that "drinking generally accompanies or facilitates petting and necking."

DRINKERS HAVE MORE DATES

Significantly, though the girls who drank more had more dates, the girls who drank less had more proposals of marriage. The prevalent opinion, "One can have a good time with a girl who drinks but may not consider her as a future wife."

Drinking habits are not hereditary, but they're catching. Repeated surveys have shown that youngsters are initiated to liquor not at wild parties, at shady bars, in parked cars—but at home. Three out of four youngsters who drink at all got their first sip from a parent's cocktail.

Is this bad? Dr. Matthew Chappell, of Hofstra College, after intensive surveys of youth drinking, concluded, "It appears from the frequency with which first drinks are obtained at home that modern parents may be striving to teach their off-spring controlled use of these beverages . . . to take the mystery and adventure out of them . . . and remove dringing as a goal of maturity."

Next: Drinking and Driving.

HIGH SCHOOL is traditionally a time of happiness for young people. Yet about a third of our teen-agers drink. How many of them are on the road to alcoholism? About one in 15, researchers say.

To Hear Gas Export Application

The injection of many millions of dollars into the Canadian economy during 1960 is foreseen by officials of the proposed 1,400-mile Alberta-California natural gas export project.

"A substantial boost to the national economy will certainly result from this project next year providing all the necessary export permits are granted and the $338 million project can be started early enough in the new year to make use of the entire 1960 construction season", Charles Pennypacker Smith, vice-president of Alberta and Southern Gas Co. Ltd., said.

The Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board was to hear the application of Alberta and Southern this week, asking that its present permit to export 2.3 trillion cubic feet of natural gas from the province be amended to 4.2 trillion cubic feet. Meanwhile, the company's application for a permit to export natural gas from Canada is pending before the National Energy Board at Ottawa.

"We have every confidence that these hearings will result in the necessary permits being granted," said Mr. Smith. He added: "Construction of the Canadian facilities could begin almost immediately and would result in workers, suppliers and transportation companies receiving benefits within a very short time".

will be held in EDMONTON at the St. John Ambulance Building, 110th Street and Jasper Avenue commencing 9:00 a.m., November 2 to 6 inclusive. This course is free to all employers and workmen in Industries to which the Workmen's Compensation Board Act applies.

Jobless Lines Shortest Since Pre-57 Slump

Edmonton's unemployment picture is brighter now than at a similar period last year or in 1957. There were only 4,024 persons registered at the Unemployment Insurance Commission an area from Ponoka north to the border.

There were 2,777 males and 2,247 females looking for work during the week of Oct. 8 as compared with 4,013 males and 2,126 females in 1958. The 1957 figures are male, 1,417 and female, 3,636.

Employment officials say the winter works program will get underway later this month and is shaping up as one of the best yet. The reason for fewer unemployed is believed due to generally healthier conditions in the construction industry which got off to an earlier start.

A shot in the arm for Edmonton's unemployment picture will be the starting of work on projects covered by the money bylaws during the election, such as the CNR subway, a $3,000,000 project.

In comparison, the lines of jobless in the Toronto area are now the shortest they have been since before the 1957-58 recession.

The National Employment Service reported 25,800 persons looking for work on Sept. 24 just a shade below the 26,158 persons reported out of jobs on Sept. 26, 1957. The weekly decline for the period this year was 746.

Sunny Alberta "Sun" To Sunny California

A former south Edmonton businessman, E. A. Self and his wife, will read "The Sun" in sunny California. Mr. Self asked to have his subscription sent to a Redland address before the couple left on a six-month visit to the U.S. city.

Mr. Self, who was manager for Burns Co. in Edmonton from 1915 to 1935, operated the Self Meat Market at 104 St. and 82 Ave. from 1935 to 1950. While in California they provide accommodation for four University of Alberta students who occupy their Edmonton home during the varsity term.

In Institution Gets 500 Votes

John Bennett, committed to a mental hospital 24 hours after filing nomination papers as a mayoralty candidate, polled more than 500 votes in civic election.

Mr. Bennett, 41, who listed himself as a factory representative, was far behind the other three candidates in the election, won by 66-year-old Elmer E. Roper, a former Alberta CCF leader.

The candidate was committed to Oliver Mental Institute Sept. 24, too late to have his name removed from the nominations list. He did no campaigning.

Grande Prairie Boxing Team Visits City

Another step forward in the revival of amateur boxing in Edmonton is slated for Saturday, Oct. 24, with the visit of the Grande Prairie Boxing Team.

The northern boys, under the coaching of former U.S. Golden Gloves great Tommy Hamilton, will take on the cream of city boxers in a show at the Alberta Gym, 10315-101 St., slated for 8 p.m.

The card will be sponsored by Edmonton's Canadian Athletic Club.

25th ANNIVERSARY PRESENT:

10,000 Musical Watts From CFRN

OLD NEWSCASTS, RECORDS, VOICES OF PAST ANNOUNCERS PART OF FUN

A double milestone in the operation of CFRN-Radio will be passed this week, and a big double switch is being planned to celebrate the event.

Effective Sunday, Oct. 18, Alberta's radio audience is now at the receiving end of the first 24-hour 10,000 watt radio service offered in this area. This power increase, from 5,000 to 10,000 watts, marks an important milestone in the growth of CFRN-Radio and its parent organization, The Sunwapta Broadcasting Company.

Coincidental with the switch to increased power is the big switch in radio-TV operation Monday which marked the opening event in a full week's celebration of CFRN-Radio's silver anniversary.

Announcers in the two divisions of the Sunwapta operation are exchanging duties—with the radio staff, announcing the television programs, and the TV announcers handling the silver mikes at the radio station. This continues throughout the day, with both the mike men and the screen men reminding their special events being broadcast during the week, in celebration of the 25th anniversary of CFRN-Radio, and the fifth anniversary of CFRN-TV.

During the anniversary week, a special jubilee program was to be broadcast. It was to feature excerpts of programs of the past; voices formerly of CFRN and now famous elsewhere; some major events covered in the early years of radio and talent that got its start at CFRN and has since become famous.

Towards the end of the week, each of CFRN's six annoucers will bring their anniversary contests to a climax by announcing and interviewing the winners of their respective clients.

Another highlight of the week's special broadcasting will be the presentation made to seven Edmonton firms which have been advertising continuously on CFRN-Radio since the opening day.

Newscasts are featuring items that made news 25 years ago. Some of the musical numbers throughout the week are those that made the hit parades a quarter-century ago. Station breaks feature "The Silver Mike" and tie-in anniversary slogans.

All this and more is on the air reaching out to more listeners than ever before because of the power increase switched on the Sunday previous.

To make this big switch possible CFRN relocated their entire transmitter setup, building from the ground up at a site located approximately six miles south and one mile west of the popular landmark on the Jasper Highway.

The new high-efficiency antenna is 472 feet high and with the latest technical improvements incorporated by CFRN's technical staff, will have the effect of doubling the power. In other words, CFRN's output will be closer to 20,000 watts instead of 10,000 as would be the case with ordinary antennae.

All transmitter buildings are completely fireproof with full automatic ventilations and heating. The transmitter will be operated by remote control from the studios. A standby transmitter will be ready to take over in case of temporary failure of the large unit.

The big switch to new sound and increased power was made on Sunday, Oct. 18 on the eve of the 25th anniversary of CFRN-Radio and the parent body, Sunwapta Broadcasting Company Limited.

G .R. A. RICE, president of Sunwapta Broadcasting Company, which is celebrating its 25th year in the broadcasting industry, began his career at the age of 15 with the Marconi Company in England. He started radio station CFRN in the fall of 1934, its 100-watt signal being a far cry from the present 10,000.

STONY INDIAN WORD

Sunwapta - Means Radiating Waves

CFRN'S First Signal Was 100 Watts' Telephone Poles Formed Its Antenna

EDMONTON — The Sunwapta Broadcasting Company, operators of CFRN-Radio and Edmonton's only Television Station CFRN-TV, this week celebrates its 25th year in the broadcasting industry.

Sunwapta, a Stony Indian word meaning "Radiating Waves," was established by its present owner G. R. A. Rice, a native of Teddington, Middlesex, England, who has spent most of his business life in radio.

The 58 year old broadcasting pioneer began his career at the age of 15 with the Marconi Company in England. Following the first World War he came to Canada and to Edmonton where he opened, in 1922, the Alberta Capital's first station owned by the Edmonton Journal.

After 12 years, the young, enthusiastic, radio-minded Englishman decided to operate his own station. He applied for his license in 1934 and in the fall of 1934 opened CFRN, a 100 watt station operating on 1260 kilocycles.

Looking back on the years Mr. Rice recalls that at the time of the sign-on the station transmitting equipment was housed in two small buildings on the west edge of the city. Eighty-foot telephone poles, he said, formed the antenna. Quite a contrast to the new towers being erected this month for the station's boost to 10,000 watts. Of the newest type of tower construction, the two towers are 472 feet and 196 feet in height.

The station then was broadcasting 13 hours a day and had a staff of seven. Today, 25 years later, the station occupies the entire floor of the CPR building in the heart of downtown Edmonton and employs a staff of 55. An additional staff of 60 are employed at the television station, located on Highway 16, west of Edmonton, and operating on Channel three, with a power of 180.3 kilowatts video and 90.4 kilowatts audio, the TV station is the most powerful of its type in North America.

The history of Sunwapta over the years has been one of continual expansion. From 1936 to March 1941, the station operated on 960 kilocycles with a power of 100 watts. In the same month, March 29 to be exact, the frequency was changed to 1260 and the power increased to 1,000 watts.

Three years later, on January 1, 1944, CFRN joined the CBC's Dominion Network. Another power increase, this time to 5,000 watts, was marked on March 1, 1947. In December of that year CFRN received its FM license and gave Edmonton listeners their first FM signal. On April 30, 1953 CFRN Radio began a 24 hour operation, the first 24 hour station in Edmonton and Northern Alberta.

Although Sunwapta has a number of important firsts to its credit, the outstanding "First" came on October 17, 1954. It was on that day that CFRN-TV began transmitting the first television signal in Northern Alberta.

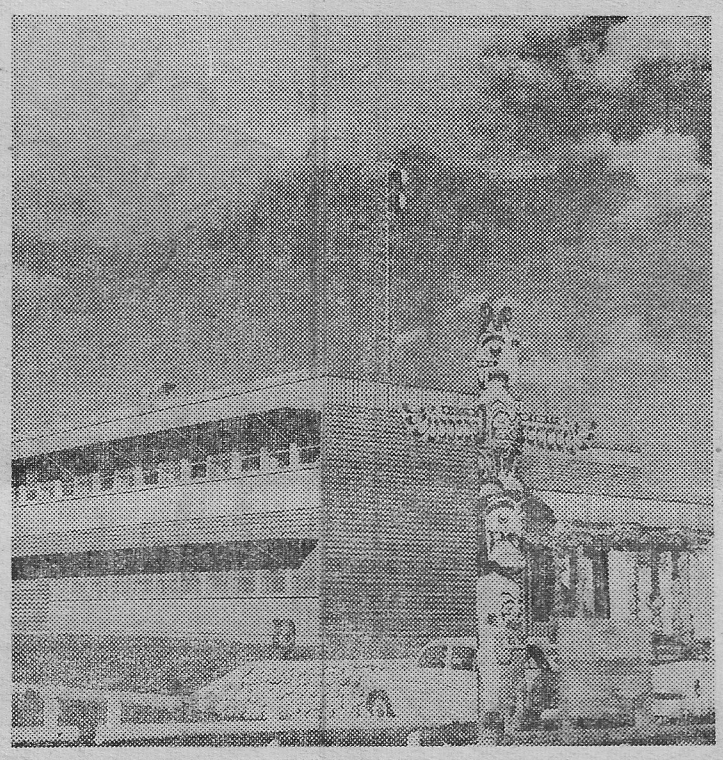
To mark its Silver Anniversary, Sunwapta, in keeping with its Indian motif, is bringing to Edmonton a group of 42 Boy Scouts, known as the Koshare Indian Dancers of La Junta, Colorado. The Koshares have gained world wide recognition for their interpretative Indian dances, authentic and colorful Indian costumes.

They will arrive here October 22 for a four day visit, the first time the dancers, organized by Indian Lore addict. J. F. (Buck) Burshears, 26 years ago, have visited or performed in Canada.

GOVERNMENT NOT ACTING

Federal financial aid for construction of fallout shelters is not being contemplated at the moment by the government, it is understood.

But one proposal—on which a firm decision has not been made—is that the National Housing Act be used to make it easier for fallout shelters to be built.



THE BIG SWITCH at CFRN this week means the radio staff has invaded the TV station shown here and the video boys have taken their places at radio headquarters in the CPR building in downtown Edmonton. CFRN radio marked its silver anniversary this week with 10,000 watts signal, double what it has been operating since 1947. CFRN-TV began transmitting the first TV signal in northern Alberta back on October 17, 1954.

C. LITTLECHILDS, R. MITCHELL EXCHANGE VOWS AT ST. FAITH'S

The St. Faith Anglican Church in Edmonton was the scene of a pretty wedding ceremony when Miss Claudia Littlechilds, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleophas Littlechilds of McRae, became the bride of Mr. Robin A. H. Mitchell, second son of Mrs. Sidney Mitchell of Brisco, B.C.

The bride, escorted up the aisle by her father, chose a gown of white lace over satin and carried a bouquet of red roses and accessories to match, which lent a radiant effect to the lovely bride.

Mrs. Kenneth Littlechilds, matron of honor, was dressed in coral. The bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Pike, Miss Shirley Peterson and Miss Gloria Todd.

Mr. Kenneth Littlechilds, Mr. Samuel Strenedka, Mr. George Littlechilds and Mr. Wesley Kopps supported the groom through the ceremony.

The bride's mother chose a light brown dress with green accessories and wore a corsage of carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for about 50 friends and relatives of the newly-married couple. Music was provided by the Albinsons, Eddy and Alvira for both the church ceremony and the dance held that evening in the Spruce Avenue hall.

The happy couple will take up residence in Brisco where the groom conducts a business as guide for tourists and hunters in that area.

Slippery Hill Causes Tie-Up

HYLO — Following the recent heavy snowfall, a number of vehicles were stranled on Venice Cemetery Hill when a car stalled half-way up the hill and swung across the road, blocking traffic.

One car in trying to pass, skidded into the ditch and all the manpower from the half-dozen vehicles that stopped to offer assistance could not get it out.

Department of agriculture and Alberta Wheat Pool officials have expressed some concern as to the condition of 1958 seedings of forage crops. The dry weather has resulted in young seedlings that lack the growth and vigor usually required for satisfactory wintering.

Magistrate's Impression Counted In Determining Prisoner's Parole

The Alberta Magistrate's Association in Edmonton was told that the way a prisoner behaves before a magistrate may help determine whether he is paroled from prison later.

T. George Street, chairman of the national parole board, said Thursday that Canadian magistrates are being asked to report on the impressions of defendants at the time of their trial, as well as their "attitude and demeanor."

Addressing a convention of the Alberta Magistrates' Association, Mr. Street said such reports will aid the parole board in determining whether a convict's attitude changes while in prison — and thus whether he deserves parole.

NOTE DIFFERENCE

"For instance," Mr. Street said, "we would like to know if he was surly, defiant, insolent or if he was penitent, or if his attitude was something other than these. It is only from knowing what his attitude and demeanor at the time of the trial was that we can determine if his attitude has changed."

Mr. Street said the parole board also would be interested in knowing if "the reaction of the public towards the offence or toward the offender himself is particularly adverse."

"We would also like to know, if we could, something about the man's reputation in the community, his family background, his relationship with his wife, his previous work record, whether he was employed at the time of the offence, and if he addicted to alcohol or drugs."

WAS MAGISTRATE

Mr. Street, a former Welland, Ont., magistrate, told the Alberta magistrates that he presumes they agree that there is "no sense in keeping a man in prison after it appears he has learned his lesson, and decided to reform."

However, he said he also presumes that the sentence handed down is the maximum which the magistrate considers should be served as punishment.

"If he is granted parole, this does not mean the sentence you gave him was too long, but it simply means that purpose was accomplished sooner than expected.

"If, on the other hand, magistrates — because they know that a person may be paroled at half time, give him a sentence twice as long as they would normally have done, this might tend to defeat the whole purpose of parole and reformation."

THE Homemaker

By BERTHA M. McCUTCHEON

Dear Homemakers:

Here are some Hallowe'en suggestions for your small fry. Witches' masks and hats that glow in the dark are a safety measure as well as being eerie-looking.

Hallowe'en Skelton Masks

Materials needed: Standard or heavy duty aluminum foil, cellophane tape or adhesive tape, black paper and glue, or black plastic tape.

B. McCutcheon

Tear off a sheet of aluminum foil about 15 inches long, 12 inches wide. Place over the face and mold to conform to eyes, nose and mouth. Smooth tightly over top of head and under chin. With the fingers, make openings for the nose and eyes. Use cellophane tape or even adhesive tape from the medicine closet and while still on the head, wrap a long piece completely around the mask. (Start under the chin and bring both ends together at the top of the head. This holds mask firmly in shape.) Remove from the face. From black paper or black plastic tape, cut eyes, triangular shape piece for nose and traditional grinning teeth for mouth. Extra foil on sides can be trimmed off and edges turned under. Mouth may be slit open if desired.

Witch's Hat

Materials needed: Standard or heavy duty aluminum foil, stiff paper or light weight cardboard, cellophane or plastic tape.

Make a large cone that fits the head, from heavy paper. Secure edges with tape. To form brim, cut a large circle about 3 inches wide all around the base of the cone. Place cone on this circle, squeeze slightly so base becomes oval to fit head. Trace around it with a pencil and cut this oval piece out of brim. Cover cone and brim with aluminum foil, securing with cellophane tape. Fit cone into brim and use cellophane or other adhesive tape to join the two together. Decorate with stars cut from black paper.

Now is the time to try some new ways of serving vegetables.

Use basic sauce and add something for a flavor lift.

BASIC WHITE SAUCE
2 tbsp. butter
2 tbsp. flour
salt
pepper
1 cup milk or ½ cup milk and
½ cup vegetable water

Cheese Sauce — add ½ cup grated cheese

Egg Sauce — add ½ cup hard cooked eggs.

Parsley Sauce — add 1 tbsp. chopped parsley

Celery Sauce — add ½ cup cooked celery.

Curry Sauce — add ½ tsp. curry.

Add bits of crisp diced bacon when ready to serve.

Add a little lemon juice or vinegar, heated French dressing, chopped parsley or mint.

Typographers Ask Revise Liquor Law

A resolution regarding liquor advertising in Alberta has been forwarded to Premier Manning following the Alberta Typographical conference, Calgary, Sept. 19 and 20, according to D. H. Strachan, secretary of the conference.

"Whereas Alberta Liquor Laws prohibit the advertising of alcoholic beverages in the Province of Alberta,

"And Whereas the present liquor laws are out dated and discriminatory to the advertising media in the Province of Alberta,

"And Whereas we as a body believe it is discriminatory in allowing this advertising to be done outside of the Province supplying increased revenue to outside sources.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that we, The Alberta Typographical Conference go on record requesting the present Liquor Laws to be changed, therefore allowing this advertising to be produced within the Province of Alberta so as not to discriminate in the media of advertising between the Provinces of Canada and other sources,

"Therefore, be it further resolved that we ask the governing body of the Province of Alberta to take into consideration that the Laws be reconsidered to the point of revision to allow the producing of this advertising in this Province of Alberta,

"Therefore, be it further resolved, that if such changes were made in the Liquor Laws of Alberta, this would bring increased revenue to the advertising media in the Province of Alberta."

Say Mysterious Signals From Outer Space

PARIS (UP) — A prominent French astronomer says observatories in Western Europe have been receiving mysterious radio signals for months from some unidentified source in outer space.

The astronomer, who asked that his name not be used, said several observatories have made extensive studies of the signals but have been unable so far to determine where they come from or what they mean. They appear to come from a moving body in space.

He said the signals exhibit a "dopper effect" frequency shift — similar to the apparent change in pitch of a moving train's whistle — like those coming from the earth's known artificial satellites.

The mystery transmitter, however, is sometimes on the air of as long as four hours at a time while U.S. and Soviet satellites seldom transmit for longer than 15 minutes at a stretch.

Health Through Chiropractic
LOST MOTION
The effects of paralysis are known to all. When a limb becomes unresponsive to the command of the will, when power of motion is lost, that condition is what we know as paralysis.

The reason for such a condition is not so well known. Just why is it that the limb, apparently sound and whole as it ever was, now fails to respond, refuses to move?

Chiropractic finds the answer in an interruption of nerve communication. Somewhere there is an interference with the supply of nerve energy to that limb; there is a break in the body's power line.

It may be that the nerve has been severed as the result of a violent accident. Or it may be that there is a spinal misalignment, causing a bone of the spine to press on that nerve in such a manner that the power it carries cannot pass that point.

Chiropractic cannot mend a complete break, but such cases are so rare that they are not a factor in the care and cure of paralysis. By far the most common cause of paralysis is the spinal misalignment, and here Chiropractic has a brilliant record of complete cures in many cases, and substantial improvement in others.

Chiropractors are specially trained to locate such misalignments and adjust them. The bone which caused all the trouble is restored to its proper position. Nerves are thereby freed to carry their essential impulses to the affected limb, and paralysis gradually disappears.

If you are suffering from any type of paralysis see your Chiropractor without delay. The shorter the period of paralysis the easier it is to cure.
